Mandaeans – Prayer Books and Devotions. I. Al-Mubarak, Majid Fandi. II. Mubarak, Brian.

299.932

This work is the transliteration of Books I and II of the Qulasta : The Mandaean Liturgical Prayer Book, which have been published in the Mandaic script.

Transliteration offers another avenue for researchers to study Mandaic, particularly those not accustomed to the Mandaic script and who may find the English character friendlier.

We have followed the same transliteration system as the one used for the Transliterated Ginza Rba, which in-turn is principally the same as that used by Drower, Macuch and others for almost half a century previous to our work.

We have included, for your convenience, a table that shows clearly and graphically the transliteration system employed here, and elsewhere throughout our publications, and thus provide an easy reference to the Mandaic character and its English equivalent.

Our aim in producing this book, as with previous and future publications, is to preserve the Mandaic language and Mandaic literature. We ultimately hope that Mandaic will one day be on the subject list of most university language courses. Its spread, education and use may yet still one day bring back to us our long lost heritage and ancestral language.
